

1. Answer: a. Primary sector

Explanation: Fishing is part of the primary sector of economy as it utilizes raw materials (in this case, fishes and other sea animals) coming directly from the earth's resources.

2. Answer: c. Control of single party

Explanation: Capitalism is characterized by private ownership that is motivated by pursuit of personal profit. Many businesses compete with one another and this ensures that no single party has a control of the market.

3. Answer: b. Pastoral and horticultural society

Explanation: It was in the pastoral and horticultural society where people began to produce surplus goods and the increase in the production called forth managing the excess.

4. Answer: b. Secondary sector

Explanation: Factory workers are considered as blue-collar workers. The nature of their work is using raw materials and turning it into another valuable commodity.

5. Answer: a. Karl Marx

Explanation: It was Karl Marx who led in the development of socialism and believed that it would end in a classless society where stratification would no longer exist.